Greetings Marketers,

Content Marketing Institute (CMI) and The Association for data-driven marketing & advertising (ADMA) are pleased to announce the results of our second annual study on content marketing practices in Australia.

This report provides insight into how Australian for-profit marketers—both business-to-business (B2B) and business-to-consumer (B2C)—are using content marketing. It also includes comparisons of Australian marketers with their North American and UK peers, so marketers can see where they are similar and different.

Key insights include:

- Australian marketers (52%) are more likely than North American (43%) and UK (42%) marketers to have a documented content strategy.
- 69% are planning to increase their content marketing budget over the next 12 months, compared with 58% of their North American and 56% of their UK peers.
- 81% are producing more content than they did one year ago, compared with 72% of their North American and 76% of their UK peers.

While Australian marketers are less challenged with certain areas (e.g., producing enough content and producing engaging content) than their North American and UK peers are, they rate themselves lower in terms of overall effectiveness (33%*). With continued advances in the field, education, and experimentation, we hope to see that confidence rise over the coming year.

On with the content marketing revolution!

DEMOGRAPHICS

Content Marketing in Australia: 2014 Benchmarks, Budgets, and Trends was produced by Content Marketing Institute in partnership with The Association for data-driven marketing & advertising (ADMA) and sponsored by King Content.

The fourth annual Content Marketing Survey, from which the results of this report were generated, was mailed electronically to a sample of marketers using lists from Content Marketing Institute, MarketingProfs, Brightcove, Blackbaud, King Content, The Association for data-driven marketing & advertising (ADMA), the Direct Marketing Association UK (DMA), Industry Week, and New Equipment Digest. A total of 4,397 recipients from around the globe—representing a full range of industries, functional areas, and company sizes—responded throughout July and August 2013.

Of those 4,397 respondents, 159 identified themselves as for-profit marketers in Australia (116 B2B and 43 B2C); 1,622 identified themselves as for-profit marketers in North America (1,315 B2B and 307 B2C); and 198 identified themselves as for-profit marketers in the UK (155 B2B and 43 B2C).

Content Marketing in Australia: 2014 Benchmarks, Budgets, and Trends reports primarily on the findings from the 159 Australian respondents, and, in some areas, provides comparisons against the responses that the North American and UK for-profit marketers provided.
