Greetings Content Marketers,

Welcome to 2014 B2B Small Business Content Marketing Trends, North America. In this report, we look at how the content marketing practices of small business marketers (10-99 employees) in the business-to-business (B2B) space have changed over the last year. In some areas, we show how the most effective small business marketers approach content marketing differently than their less effective peers. In other areas, we compare small business marketers with enterprise marketers (1,000+ employees).

Here are some of the key findings:

• Confidence is up. Last year, 34% of B2B small business marketers said they were effective at content marketing. This year, 45% say they are effective.

• B2B small business marketers are more likely to have a documented content strategy when compared with their peers at both smaller and larger organizations.

• B2B small business marketers are using social media more frequently than they did last year. The biggest jumps have been in Google+ (40% to 61%), SlideShare (24% to 40%), Instagram (9% to 23%), and YouTube (62% to 75%).

While B2B small business marketers continue to be challenged with producing enough content as well as engaging content, they have made improvements in both of these areas. They also continue to invest in content marketing, with 60% saying they will increase their spending over the next 12 months.

We hope you find this information useful in executing your own content marketing strategy.

B2B small business marketers cite LinkedIn as the social media platform they use most often to distribute content.

B2B small business marketers use an average of six social media platforms to distribute content, compared with five last year.

Once again this year, LinkedIn, Twitter, and Facebook (in that order) are cited as the platforms used most often.

Usage of all these platforms has risen since last year. Vine was a new option this year.

Compared with last year, the biggest jumps in usage have been with Google+ (40% to 61%), SlideShare (24% to 40%), Instagram (9% to 23%), and YouTube (62% to 75%).
Although adoption rates for social media are high, B2B small business marketers are unsure of its effectiveness.

This is the first year that survey respondents were asked to rate the effectiveness of social media platforms. Like their enterprise peers, B2B small business marketers say LinkedIn is the most effective.

Content production issues top the list of challenges for B2B small business marketers.

When compared with last year, fewer B2B small business marketers are challenged with:

- Producing enough content (down from 64% to 58%)
- Producing engaging content (down from 54% to 45%)
- Producing a variety of content (down from 43% to 40%)
Lack of time and producing enough content are the biggest content marketing challenges for B2B small business marketers.
