Greetings Marketers,

Welcome to B2C Content Marketing Benchmarks, Budgets, and Trends—North America. This is our fifth year reporting on how B2C marketers approach content marketing. Earlier this fall, we released our companion report on B2B marketing, now in its seventh year.

A lot has changed since we launched our first content marketing survey in 2010. This year, we redesigned the survey to dig deeper into how marketers are operating in the maturing content marketing industry. We were encouraged to see that 63% of B2C marketers report their organizations are much more or somewhat more successful with content marketing than they were one year ago.

What about the B2C marketers who indicated their success was stagnant? The top two reasons cited were strategy issues (lack of strategy, developing/adjusting strategy) and not enough time for content marketing. In addition, only 52% agreed that their leadership team gives them ample time to produce content marketing results.

The fact is, everything about content marketing takes time. It takes time to develop a strategy … time to develop and distribute quality content … time to evaluate what’s working and what isn’t … and time to see results. We hope these research insights will be helpful as you consider how much time to invest in content marketing—and where to spend it—in the year ahead.

Yours in content,
Joe & Ann

METHODOLOGY/DEMOGRAPHICS

B2C Content Marketing: 2017 Benchmarks, Budgets, and Trends—North America was produced by Content Marketing Institute and MarketingProfs and sponsored by Hightail.

The seventh annual Content Marketing Survey, from which the results of this report were generated, was mailed electronically to a sample of marketers using lists from Content Marketing Institute, MarketingProfs, The Association for Data-driven Marketing & Advertising (ADMA), and WTWH Media.

A total of 2,562 recipients from around the globe—representing a full range of industries, functional areas, and company sizes—completed the survey during July and August 2016. This report presents the findings from the 480 respondents who indicated their organizations primarily sell products/services to consumers (B2C) [31%] or to both consumers and businesses (B2C+B2B) [69%] in North America.
