SURVEY TERM DEFINITIONS

Content Marketing: A strategic marketing approach focused on creating and distributing valuable, relevant, and consistent content to attract and retain a clearly defined audience—and, ultimately, to drive profitable customer action.

Success: Achieving your organization’s desired/targeted results.

NOTE
Use caution if making comparisons with past years. The survey methodology changed beginning with our 2019 version of this report, when we began asking respondents to confirm their content marketing role and whether their organization has used content marketing for at least one year.
Welcome to B2C Content Marketing 2020: Benchmarks, Budgets, and Trends. In this report, we show you how B2C respondents replied to our 10th annual content marketing survey.

B2C marketers are doing a lot of things right. According to the survey, they’re using content marketing successfully to create brand awareness, educate audiences, build credibility/trust, generate demand/leads, and more. Social media, email, blogs, and in-person events have been the highest-performing content types for their companies for building awareness and securing, nurturing, and converting leads.

However, the most successful B2C marketers in the future will likely be those who focus on deeper parts of the customer journey, for example using content marketing to build loyal, subscribed audiences and generate sales/revenue.

Read on for more insights into the current state of B2C content marketing. We hope you find this information useful as you plan for a prosperous 2020!
Most B2C content marketers are reporting success

Three out of four B2C marketers characterize their organization as extremely, very, or moderately successful with content marketing and say they are much/somewhat more successful compared with one year ago. See page 7.

They rely heavily on email

Respondents rated email newsletters as their highest-performing content type for securing and nurturing leads, and a close second for converting leads. For building brand awareness, blog posts/articles and social media content tied for first. See page 23.

The majority outsource at least one content marketing activity, with content creation being the most likely

Among the 55% of respondents who outsource, 80% outsource content creation, with content distribution a far second (37%). See pages 16 and 17.

Conversions, content quality/quantity, and audience expansion in 2020

When presented with a list of seven possible content marketing priorities for 2020 and asked to select their top three, respondents indicated improve quality/conversion of audiences (50%), focus on content quality/quantity (50%), and increase the size of our audiences (40%). See page 35.

Facebook reigns

Facebook is both the top organic and paid social media platform B2C marketers use, and the one they say generates the best content marketing results for their organization. See page 26.

Half agree they provide optimal experiences across the customer journey

54% agree their organization provides customers with optimal experiences across their engagement journey. Another 20% neither agree nor disagree, while 26% disagree. See page 11.
As shown here, B2C companies in the sophisticated/mature phase of content marketing maturity (see page 8) report higher levels of content marketing success when compared with all respondents. The chart also shows a few other key differences. The widest observed gap is among those who agree their organization provides customers with optimal experiences across the engagement journey.

METHODOLOGY

B2C Content Marketing 2020: Benchmarks, Budgets, and Trends was produced by Content Marketing Institute (CMI) and MarketingProfs. The CMI/MarketingProfs 10th annual content marketing survey, from which the results of this report were generated, was emailed to a sample of marketers using lists from Content Marketing Institute and MarketingProfs. Online survey hosting, data collection and tabulation was provided by Readex Research.

A total of 1,798 recipients from around the globe—representing a full range of industries, functional areas, and company sizes—replied to the survey during June/July 2019. More than 250 respondents (256) indicated their organization is a for-profit company, primarily selling products/services to companies (B2C). This report presents the findings from the 179 B2C respondents who indicated a) their organization has used content marketing for at least one year and b) they are a content marketer, involved with the content marketing function, and/or someone to whom content marketing reports.
